Stennis receives first charter flight Tuesday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The new Stennis Airport passenger terminal received a once-over Monday by county Port and Harbor commissioners in anticipation of the first of many passenger flights.

Sun Country Charters is to arrive Tuesday at 10:15 a.m. from Houston, Texas. One hundred and sixty to 180 passengers are anticipated.

Wednesday, Sun Country will arrive from Chicago at 10 a.m. with approximately the same number of passengers.

Both flights will depart by 8 or 9 p.m. the same day, allowing charter travelers 10 to 11 hours to eat, drink and gamble.

The passengers will be transported by bus to and from Casino Magic.

Commission director Harold "Buz" Olsen reported contracts with various service providers are nearly completed.

He said those signed are with the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, for assignment of two deputies to security, and with the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department, for fire/rescue trucks and men. Both departments will provide services prior to, during and following all flight arrivals and departures.

The commission approved a contract Monday with Barry Pincus of Bay Crafts for the concession area. Pincus is to provide cold sandwiches and drinks, coffee, pastries from Ruth's Bakery out of Bay St. Louis, and a selection of local crafts and t-shirts. Also approved was the leasing of two of the four available offices to Casino Magic Corp.

The commission placed into effect a permitting requirement through which taxis, limousines and buses could be monitored for fair business practices.

Upon approval of the board of supervisors, vehicles for hire will have to be permitted to gain access to the terminal area. Commercial vehicle owners will have to pay an annual fee and provide proof of a valid Mississippi commercial motor vehicle license, certificate of insurance, and current county privilege license.

Contracts pending are for janitorial services at the termi-

Industrial park roads await work

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock Port and Harbor Commission approved advertisement for bids on a $5 million road improvement project at the county industrial park.

Roads in the Port Bienville Industrial Park will be repaired and re-asphalted under a state financed port revitalization program loan.

According to commission director Harold "Buz" Olsen, the matching three percent loan will be repaid at a cost of $54,000 per year.

Commission engineer Carlos Cordon explained the bid pack-

Bay hears waste proposal

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay St. Louis Council president James Thrifley expressed concern Tuesday over future plans for solid waste reduction, saying, "We are just starting a recycling program here and don't want anything to upset the apple cart, so to speak."

Engineer Lloyd Compton presented to the board a plan through which the municipalities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis will join with the county in appointing individuals to manage the state mandated solid waste minimization plan.

The plan calls for the county and each municipality to appoint a representative to a board. The board of three would then hire a solid waste coordinator to administer the program.

Compton said, bidding for services could be done jointly, separately or together, in order to evaluate the costs and services.

Compton stated, he would like to see the services of collection/hauling, recycling and disposal separated, opening the markets to competition.

He added, "As landfill space becomes less and less available, costs will increase in this service."

Monthly costs for Bay St. Louis solid waste disposal, per household, are $4.58 for collection/hauling and $2.25 for disposal. Upon commencement of the Gulf Coast Recycling contract March 1, cost per household will include $1.70 for recycling.

WARD 1 ZONING

Approved was city zoning redistricting, in which only Ward 1 experienced an increase of 1.5 square miles of land, northeast and along the Cedar Point area.

Wards 2, 3 and 4 were unchanged.

Council members stated, they felt there would be no difficulty in receiving state approval, as the changes in Ward 1 included an increase in voting power by only 8 votes.

Council members approved acceptance of two checks:

—a state sales tax reimbursement for $29,595;

—and the January Casino Magic service fee of $71,303.

Dubuc, St. Joseph crossings to be closed by CSX in Waveland

BY LIZ HAAS

Waveland officials accepted an offer by CSX Transportation Railroad to close crossings at Dubuc Lane and St. Joseph Street in a Tuesday special meeting.

In addition, the Elwood Bourgeois Memorial Park property will be donated to the city by CSX.

"They are donating the park to us and we agreed to close down the two crossings," said Frilot in a Wednesday press conference.

CSX agreed to donate a strip of land from Waveland Avenue to Dubuc Lane for construction of a road so residents will not be cut off from access. The city will request that the railroad assist in the paving of the new street.

"We've been going over these negotiations since early November," said Frilot.

At that time the city was contacted by the CSX Real Estate Department and notified that the Elwood Bourgeois Memorial Park property located at Central and Waveland avenues would be for sale at $130,000. The city has leased the property for many years on a year-to-year basis.

The initial suggestion by CSX was to close crossings at Coleman Avenue and St. Joseph Street.

"The closing of those two crossings would be an inconvenience to the most citizens, and we wanted this to affect the least number of people possible," said Frilot.

The five railroad crossings in Waveland are located at Dubuc Lane, Waveland Avenue, St.

The service is free and a caseworker will help people who may be eligible complete the forms. The Social Security Administration will process and forms and review eligibility for the benefits.

If you or anyone you know is in need, please contact Alison Salloum at Catholic Social Services — SSI Outreach at 1-800-251-3702 or call Jay Fleuret at the St. Vincent de Paul information and referral office at 467-0703.

nal, as well as cleaning and refreshment replenishment of the airplane between flights.

The terminal has in place a waiting area, metal body scanner and a pay phone.

The Federal Aviation Association (FAA) requires all persons boarding a plane to be screened for metal.

The commission approved a contract with International Total Services for screening services at a cost of $120 per flight, for a minimum of two hours work and $10 per hour for additional time.

The commission will charge 75¢ per person to compensate for the cost of the screener.

Olsen said, in the future the commission may hire a trained screener and purchase a luggage scanner (approximate cost $24,000) for overnight visitors. The telephone, according to Olsen, was installed by Pay Phones of America. All monies deposited will be split between the commission and Pay Phones of America, following reimbursement of initial costs by the phone company.

Olsen added contracts are being issued for 90 days and six months time periods, allowing the commission the option to change contracts and/or contractors depending on future developments.

He concluded, should weather conditions prohibit the airplane from landing at Stennis Tuesday, Sun Country will continue to Gulfport Regional Airport.

Cordon said, the bid packages include an alternative which the commission could include in the project should additional monies be available.

The alternative is for the paving of 440 feet of Road D, presently a shell road leading to the Con-Tech Power Systems site.

The earliest opening date on the bids will be March 19.

This is the only children's krewe along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The parade captain is Lisa Cowand. For further information, call her at 467-0506.

Grand Marshall for the parade is Hancock County's Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler.

I am hoping there will be good weather for the kids parade.

Sunday will mark the annual Krewe of Nereids parade followed by Eros and Krewe of Hancock.

The parade begins at The Choctaw Shopping Center and proceeds east down Highway 90, and after entering Bay St. Louis, it will turn and travel west on Highway 90 to disband at Our Shopping Center at Waveland Avenue.

The time for the Nereids parade is 1 p.m.

I hope to see you at the parades.

There will be some vehicular travel inconveniences in Bay St. Louis on St. Francis Street between Easterbrook and Bookter Streets and also on Carroll Avenue south of Dunbar.

This is necessary in order for the city to make some needed sewer repairs.

I know the dirt under Carroll Avenue should be about worn out from being moved about so many times for sewer repairs.

This 400 block of Carroll Avenue has been a problem ever since the sewer lines were installed back in 1965. I am hoping, like city officials, that they will be able to cure the problems this time.

I know Carroll Avenue and St. Francis Street are very much traveled, so motorists need to try and avoid those areas until the repairs can be completed.

I would suggest that unless you are going to the immediate areas, try another route, as we do have many ways we can move about town.

The fewer traffic on these areas will mean a faster repair job by the city.

Congratulations are in order for Suzette Burton, Hancock High chemistry teacher upon being selected by DuPont along with Karen Roberts, physical science teacher at North Gulfport, to attend a convention in Kansas City, Kansas.

The teachers will be representing their respective schools at the National Science Teachers Association Convention in April in Kansas City.

DuPont's DeLisle plant, sponsor for the two teachers, is providing roundtrip air fare, hotel accommodations and convention fees.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Youth Task Force, new Youth Center are assets

Dear Editor,

We want to commend the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for taking positive action this past week on two very important issues.

Their decisions on the new Child Care Center and the Youth Center shows their desire to work for the health and betterment of Hancock County's youth.

Also, we commend the Hancock Community Task Force on Youth for their work and accomplishments. This group of concerned parents and volunteers are truly making a difference as they work to deal with the complex issues confronting our young people.

Our committee knows that the work on both of these projects has been underway for some time. They, like our local literacy program, the Chapter I parent involvement program, and Homework Hotline, and many, many others, can all be meshed with the goals of Hancock 2000.

There is much more work to be done. We invite everyone to join us in our efforts. Our next meeting will be on Feb. 25, 6:30 p.m. at the Chamber office. We are beginning to focus on Goal 1 — "All children will come to school ready to learn and parents will foster the desire to continue the learning process."

Be forgiving and make the world a better place

To the Editor:

The only way we can all get along in this world is to learn to forgive each other for the many indignities we heap upon each other as we all struggle to make our way (or maintain our place) in this world.

Often what in the grand scheme of things is just a small glitch in life can become a major obstacle to building community, whether it be within your family, your church, your neighborhood, or your workplace.

The reason I bring this up is that I read in Ann Lander's column recently that National Forgiveness Week is sometime in February. I don't know which week it is, but I do know that we can't limit our forgiveness (of ourselves and others) to one week a year. It's something we must do daily.

Happy Forgiving,

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Governor, attorney general at odds over inspector general

One of Gov. Kirk Fordice's key legislative proposals—creation of the Office of Inspector General as his own investigative arm to ferret out waste and wrong-doing in state agencies—hit the dust last week in the Legislature's left to die in a committee pigeon-hole.

Even though the IG would not be able to investigate the legislative branch under the administration bill, lawmakers were not about to give Fordice a new investigative office with subpoena powers when the state already has several existing agencies which do that job.

But the Legislature's nixing of the Fordice legislative proposal evidently does not close the book on the Office of Inspector General which Fordice putatively gave a life of its own shortly before Christmas, even before the lawmakers arrived to consider his bill.

You'll recall that the governor in his first executive order in mid-December unilaterally established the IG's office, complete with the power to subpoena persons or documents needed in its investigations.

Fordice in the executive order cited several sections of the state Constitution which he said gave him the power to create the new office.

Concurrently he had announced that the new office would be funded with $100,000 diverted from federal funds allotted to the state for law enforcement, and $33,000 he would take from his own office.

This gambit by Fordice sent State Auditor Steve Patterson straight up the wall. He already was the state's inspector general, he informed the governor, and creating another was sheer duplication and a waste of money.

Fordice didn't bother to answer Patterson's letter but commented at a press conference that the state Auditor was "political."

Patterson didn't stop there. He requested Atty. Gen. Mike Moore to review the constitutional provisions cited by Fordice in the executive order, and also a series of statutes which set out the powers of the state Auditor, and render an opinion on the legal validity of the governor's move.

The AG's ruling had come down on Jan. 29, but it was quietly kept under wraps by Patterson pending possible action by the Legislature on the Fordice bill, which faced a Feb. 2 midnight deadline to come out of committee.

When the Fordice proposal on giving legislative validity to the Inspector General post failed to survive the committee, Patterson was eager to let the world know what Moore had ruled: The Auditor was declared a winner on all counts.

"A careful search of the state Constitution reveals no delegation to the Governor of power to create a public office such as 'Inspector General,' Moore held.

Nor did the state statutes cited by Fordice in his executive order grant him power to create a new state office, the ruling added.

Specifically, Moore held that the governor had no inherent authority under the state Constitution or statutes to issue subpoenas or protective orders. That power, Moore's opinion added, "is, in the opinion of this office, a power inherent to the judicial branch of government rather than the executive branch."

At week's end, the possibility of a constitutional crisis loomed if Fordice defies the AG's ruling and persists in operating the Inspector General's office under his December 18 executive order.

Gerald Gafford, the Oxford attorney Fordice had appointed to the IG post, indicated that the Fordice Administration will have to regroup and issue a new executive order placing the spot within the governor's office.

Gafford said when he came on board he "took a look at the funds (which Fordice planned to

Fee-paid system undermines sound fiscal control in state

It went out with a whimper, not a bang. It was barely given a chance to be heard before it was strangled in the corner of a committee room.

It was an opportunity to move another segment of government out of the 19th century, and closer to the 21st century.

It was a chance for counties around the state to attain sound fiscal management by placing chancery and circuit court clerks on a salary rather than a fee basis. However, it was decided by a group of legislators that the issue just wasn't important enough to be brought up this year. Forget the need for accountability and fiscal responsibility, they said.

The payment of chancery and circuit clerks should come from a salary, and they should operate within a budget approved by the county board of supervisors. Currently, most of the fees paid to chancery and circuit court clerks come from the county taxpayers, not just the people who use those offices.

In 1991, the latest year available, circuit court clerks received an average of 76.3 percent of their revenue from the county. Chancery clerks received an average of 55.9 percent from public monies.

Some argue that payment by the fee system is "free enterprise" at its best, that circuit and chancery clerks are rewarding on the basis of the market system. Well, it's time for the truth to come out: Gov-

Do you feel smoking should be banned from all public buildings?

"Yes, and from my house, too. My wife smokes. Really, I don't think people should be able to smoke in public buildings, especially grocery stores."

Pat Connolly
Bay St. Louis

"No, not really. I'm a non-smoker, and a lot of people complain about the smoke, but I wouldn't feel that way if I were a smoker. I don't think the problem of second-hand smoke is all that big of a deal. It might help to have certain areas assigned in some buildings, but not totally ban it."

Mike Rose

"No, I don't think it should be. I think a person has a right to smoke if they want to, no matter where they are."

Patterson, meantime, told this writer that he planned to "look closely" at any funds which the governor may have already spent or proposes to spend "for an office he is not constitutionally authorized to create."

The Auditor raised the possibility that he may make demands on Fordice to repay the funds.

Hold the phone, this contretemps may get ugly.

Mardi Gras declared alternate state holiday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

State Senator Bill Johnson reported the passage of a bill declaring Mardi Gras Day an alternate state holiday.

Counties and cities may now legally switch another state holiday for Fat Tuesday celebrations.

Johnson said the bill was introduced by Rep. J.P. Compretta as a general bill, for should it have been introduced as a local and private bill it would have affected only Hancock County.

As a general bill, those cities within the surrounding counties of Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River and Stone may also take advantage of the holiday exchange of business days.

The bill now awaits the signature of the Governor, which Johnson said, is expected to be no later than the next day or two.

ernment service is not a part of the free enterprise system; it is a public trust.

To keep that public trust, the fee system should be abandoned. Fees should be deposited directly into the county treasuries, officials should be paid a fair and just compensation, and above all, taxpayer dollars should be fairly managed.

It has been said that committees are dead-end streets where good ideas are lured, and then quietly strangled. That was proved true by the actions of the Mississippi Legislature last week.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

DIAMONDHEAD COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

On Friday, Feb. 5, the association held its first dinner meeting for 1993. It was a full house at the country club with approximately 250 members attending, largely due to the guest speaker and her topic of the Diamondhead Covenants.

Deborah Thompson, attorney with Blackwell and White in Gulfport, described the covenants and how they are enforced; then she answered questions from the audience.

Peter Casano, president of the POA was invited to speak to the group and tried to answer some questions directed to him. There were some rude folks and heated comments made that the invited speakers should not have been subjected to.

John Smart, the new association president, hopes this type of discussion will not be repeated at future meetings.

If a member would like a set of free photo copies of the covenants, re I, II and III, call Mr. Smart at 255-3803 and arrange to pick up the package.

The Diamondhead POA is preparing a book of both the bylaws and covenants, which will become available in the near future. This will be of benefit to all property owners in Diamondhead, so all should obtain their copies from either source.

New officers and directors for 1993 are: president, John Smart; vice president, Ed Rosenhauser; treasurer, Jean Jaumot; secretary, Carol Mailho.

New directors are Lois Abrams, Bette Flood, George Schrugham and Jim Van Norman. Remaining directors from 1992 are Vince Minnaert, Larry Rolfs and Phil Garberg, past president.

This new board promises to be very active in all things concerning Diamondhead and its residents. They welcome new members to join by sending a check for $10 to Jean Jaumot, 7549 Mahalo Hui Dr., Diamondhead, MS 39525. See you at the next meeting.

STAYING FIT

Nautilus Plus has all sorts of programs, plus an indoor lap pool to stay healthy and trim. They offer low impact and step aerobics.

SWING YOUR PARTNER

Calling all couples (and singles, too) to come out and join the Diamondhead Square Dancers Club every Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at the St. Williams Church recreational center. If you'd like "to put your little foot right there," come on out on Tuesday nights.

ALL YOU SEAFARERS

The Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla No. 33 is offering a seamanship and boating skills course on Tuesday, March 2 at 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center. The study will be on safety, legal requirements, navigation rules, engine maintenance, piloting and aids to navigation. All you sailors come learn more about boating. Call 466-4380 for information.

REVIVAL TIME

The Diamondhead Baptist Church is holding a revival Sunday, Feb. 14 at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m., then Sunday through Wednesday 17th at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Ken Smith from Starkville, Fla. and John Yates, a musician and ventriloquist are the evangelists. All are welcome to come join in "his spirit."

DIABETES SUPPORT

If you are a diabetic, or have a friend, loved one, or family member with diabetes, come join the Support Group meeting at the Diamondhead Community Center on Monday, Feb. 15 at 7 p.m. It will be informative and educational, and will enlighten you to this disease.

LIONS' ROAR

The newly formed Diamondhead Lions Club will have its meeting Tuesday, Feb. 16, 7 p.m. at the Community Center. They want new members and are welcoming ladies to join. Everyone knows all the good work the Lions do.

PARADES

We will be royally treated to our very own Mardi Gras when the Krewe of Diamondhead parades on Saturday, Feb. 20 starting at the Community Center at 2 p.m., ending at the country club with a party—music, food and fun.

Then on Sunday, Feb. 21 at 3 p.m. at the Diamondhead Marina, the royal barge bearing King Akua Kai XIX Robert "Bob" Wood and his Queen Lee Fredian will arrive to greet all of their subjects. They will be followed by a parade of decorated boats.

Following the parade, the yacht club will be open to the public for a special buffet, and music for dancing by Bo and Dee. Sounds like a lot of fun for all.

DIAMONDHEAD RESTAURANTS

Mr. Peter Casano, president of the Diamondhead POA, states in the February news letter that some changes will be made in the hours and operations at the yacht and country club dining rooms.

"We need to increase our prices, reduce labor costs, increase volume and run a tighter ship. Food prices will basically remain the same, but member discount will be discontinued."

Stevens sings contemporary Christian songs and Cyrulik is an evangelist and ordained minister with the Assembly of God Pentecostal church.

Together the women need to raise between $5,000 and $6,000 to travel with Cecil Todd of St. Louis, Mo. on a gospel crusade.

Stevens said, "Many of the areas we will be visiting have not heard the gospel preached in 50 years."

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Don't lose your tackle when hooking 'convict' fish

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Last week I went on at length about how to catch the "convict" fish around the Bay St. Louis train bridge. I told y'all that one of the best spots was around the wooden pilings that make up the bumper system where the bridge opens to let boats go through.

I forgot to tell y'all that the bottom closest to the concrete piling is loaded with tackle eating monsters.

If you decide to fish in the direction of the concrete piling by the bumper system, you might wanna bring a whole big bunch of extra terminal tackle. That means that you are gonna need lots of extra hooks, sinkers, and leader material in order to feed the tackle eating monster.

Seriously folks, that seems to be a lot of "junk" on the bottom close to the concrete pilings that will snag your gear if you don't fish straight down.

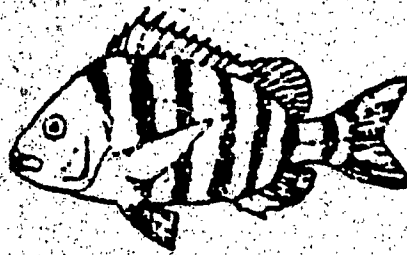

The next thing I forgot to mention is that the tackle eating monsters also like to eat anchors. It might be a wise decision to tie up to the wooden piling instead of using your anchor in this area.

The next, next thing is that you should keep a sharp lookout for the boats that will pass through the bridge opening. They cannot always see you if you are tied up where you should be, on the inside of the bunker, not in the channel. The large wakes can present a hazard to you if you don't pay attention. Besides, it is too cold to go swimming.

I had two reports of fishermen catching 8 to 10 "convict" out by the train bridge this past week, so I know the fish are there.

The most persistent thing I am hearing about the "convict" fish is, man these fish are great fighters—but how do you clean the darn things? Just because they have large scales does not mean you have to scale them.

One of the best methods I have seen is to just gut the fish and place the fish scales and all in a pot of boiling water seasoned with some crab boil. You boil the fish for about 15 or 20 minutes. The way you tell the fish is done is you use a fork to stick the fish. If the meat flakes, you know the fish is done.

Next take the fish out of the water. Let it cool five or ten minutes and you will be able to pull the skin, scales and all, right off the fish. The rest of the meat, sans scales, will come right off in flakes.

You than have several options as to what to do next with the meat. Fish salad, etc. Convict fish have some really great tasting meat that can be used in a wide variety of ways.

Only other report on fish catching this past week came from Don Fusch. Don is an ace fisherman in the Bayou Caddy area. He claims that the best time to catch the "Big Ones" in the Bayou Caddy area is right before a weather front comes rolling into the area. He fishes the holes around the end of Pleasure Street in Bayou Caddy.

He was not clear if the street was in Bayou Caddy or not, so I presume he did not fish out of his car. I guess he used a boat. Maybe he has an outboard car. If you catch any tagged trout, please call BMR at once.

This week's wonderful wise words: Convict fish seem to be the only game in town.

Beware of tackle-eating monsters, turtle.

Ask the Veteran's Service Center

By Donald Mauffray
Veteran's Service Officer

By Donald Mauffray, CVSO

Q. Will I be able to keep my Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) after I am discharged?

A. You are covered by SGLI for 120 days following separation from service with no additional premium payment. If you are totally disabled at the time of separation, your SGLI coverage remains in effect for one year or until you are no longer totally disabled, whichever comes first.

You can convert your SGLI to Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI) within the 120-day period after separation (or within one year, if you are totally disabled) without meeting good health standards. Application for VGLI may be made up to one year, plus 120 days.

However, if application is made after the 120th day following separation (or one year for those totally disabled), you must meet good health standards. The first premium must be submitted with the completed application.

Q. My wife and I plan to be buried in a plot we purchased in a private cemetery. Even though it's not a national cemetery, we agree that we'd like the traditional veterans' headstone. I understand that, as a veteran, the VA will supply a standard headstone for my grave, even if I'm buried in a private cemetery. My wife, however, is not a veteran. What happens if she dies before I do? Will the VA supply a headstone to mark her grave?

A. The law does not authorize the VA to provide a headstone or marker for a spouse or dependent of a veteran buried in a private cemetery regardless of the sequence of death.

If the veteran dies first, the VA may provide the headstone (or flat marker), and the next of kin may request that space be reserved for later inscription of vital information about the spouse. The family would have to bear the cost of the inscription following the death of the spouse.

If the spouse of the veteran dies first and is buried in a national cemetery, a state veterans cemetery or a military cemetery, the VA is authorized to provide the headstone inscribed with the vital information (name, date of birth and date of death).

In such a case, the inscription will read: Given Name/Date of Birth/Date of Death/Wife of —

given hands-on experience

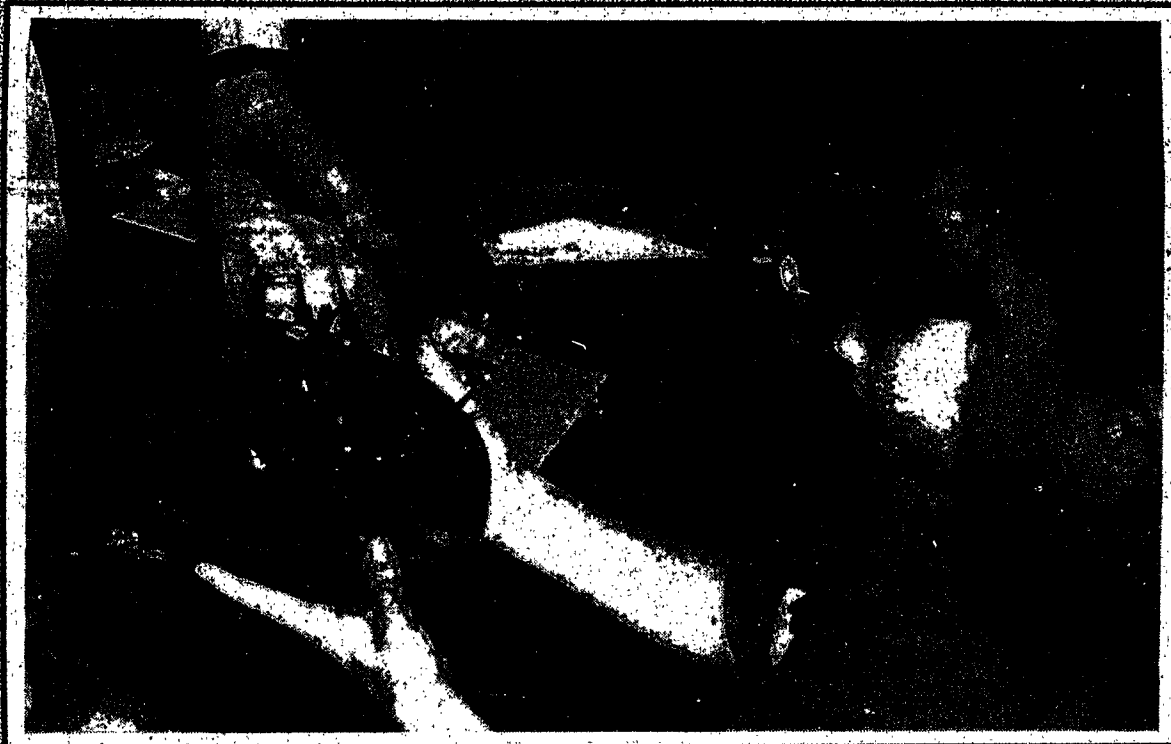

Project Marine Discovery instructors had the undivided attention of Hancock Elementary second graders in Monday's "On the Road" program with Project Marine Discovery. Teacher Karen Kopf coordinated the visit.

Janet McQueen

Dr. John Steen, assistant education coordinator at the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center, Ocean Springs, invites students to hold small snails.

Project Marine Discovery's "On the Road" exhibit visited Hancock Elementary Monday. Operating under a grant from the Alabama Department of Education, the mobile marine exhibit features four presentations: horseshoe crab, sand dollars, sea urchins and snails.

Docent Tom Barrett describes characteristics of the horseshoe crab, above, while Kay Barrett, below, displays a sand dollar and other shells which the students examined. HNCE principal Bettye McLeod said she finds the students retain hands-on learning much better, as they are able to experiment and express themselves.
